

Relatives Cause of Martial Woes Says Steve Nemeth

In a bill for divorce and injunction filed in the Will County Circuit Court at Joliet on May 11th, Mrs. Martha Nemeth, wife of Steve Nemeth, well known farmer of Homer township, charges her husband with extreme cruelty and says he threatened to kill her.

In her bill Mrs. Nemeth alleges that her husband compelled and required her to do a man's work in the field such as discing the fields for grain, harrowing, operating a tractor, assisting in hauling barn yard manure and work until nearly noon when he would order her to go in the house and have dinner on the table by 12 o'clock and then would find fault with the meal and when she remonstrated with him saying she did not have sufficient time to prepare the meal the way she would like to he would become angry and threaten to beat her.

Mrs. Nemeth further charges that her husband has a violent and ungovernable temper and struck her on an average of once a month for the past two years whenever she would try to reason with him. The past year he also compelled her to milk half of the cows. When she was ill in bed, Mrs. Nemeth charges her husband forced her to get up and work. She further recites in her bill that hard work coupled with the care of the children has impaired her health.

Mrs. Nemeth says in her bill that her husband would not let her go to visit her folks and that when she insisted on going for a visit on April 25th of this year her husband demanded that she stay at home and when she refused to do so she charges he struck her with his fist.

The climax came on May 8th while the family was eating dinner according to Mrs. Nemeth. She claims her husband asked her to exchange her plate and for his saying he did not trust her. Mrs. Nemeth claims she took this to mean that he feared she was going to poison him and she replied that he had nothing to fear from her, but that she had much to fear of him whereupon she claims he became violently angry and ordered her off the place saying he could get someone else to cook his meals.

Mrs. Nemeth further sets forth in her bill that her husband owns a 128 acre farm, has a large herd of dairy cows, hogs, implements, and that she had aided him financially to acquire all this property. She states he draws a milk check of $250 each month from the Newton Dairymilk Plant at Orland and she asks the court to restrain this company from paying him the amount of $75 of the total moneys due him each month and further petitions the court to issue an injunction against her husband restraining him from selling or assigning any of the property which asks be distributed, both real and personal, Mrs. Nemeth is represented by A. H. Krusemark. The case is set for hearing in the Sept. term of court.

The couple were married in the city of Blue Island March 21, 1915 and of this union three children were born and the mother asks also that they be placed in her care. On the other hand Mr. Nemeth claims that interference by his wife's relatives in their private domestic affairs is the cause of the wreck of their bark on the sea of matrimony. Mr. Nemeth denies his wife's charges of cruelty and declares that all his efforts to please his wife were futile as the relatives kept sowing the seeds of dissension he claims. He states his wife's folks were greatly opposed to their marriage and that they lived peaceful and happy for many years until the relatives of the wife came to Mokena and began to interfere with the marriage and that since they made up a year ago, there has been nothing but trouble. Mr. Nemeth avers that when he joined the Masons a few years ago the relatives of his wife became more opposed to him than ever. He declares that he has always been a

Aug. Werner, Pioneer Frankfort Imp. Dealer, Dies

August Werner, aged 72 years, a pioneer resident of Frankfort and a dealer in farm implements in that village for fifty years, died at his home in that village on Thursday morning at 7 o'clock following a long and painful illness.

Mr. Werner was born in the town of Frankfort Sept. 17, 1852 and at the age of 17 years he came to Frankfort and learned the farm implement trade from the late Philip Klepper. Later he went in business for himself and continued in this business for fifty years.

He is survived by his widow, a son Albert of Chicago Heights, one daughter, Mrs. Chas. Harmening of Frankfort, four brothers, Fred, Henry, Martin and John, one sister Mrs. John Wannemacher of Mokena and one grand child.

The funeral services will be held on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock old time from the late home to the St. Peter Evangelical church, Rev. G. Lambrecht officiating. Burial in Pleasant Hill.

Matteson Has A Merry School Row

Matteson has been having a merry little school row all of its own which is still going on. It appears that the school board at a meeting held on the first Thursday in this month hired Miss Helen Bishop as teacher of the intermediate department in place of Mrs. Johns who has held this position for two years and as a result this caused a big upheaval. Friends of Mrs. Johns got up a petition asking the school board to reinstate her and even the 120 pupils of the school declared they would go on strike as a demonstration that Mrs. Johns be reinstated.

When interviewed by the News Bulletin Wednesday Henry Schoelling, a member of the school board declared that the pupils would only harm themselves by striking as the board could compel them to attend school.

When asked why Mrs. Johns was not re-engaged, Mr. Schoelling said "There was no co operation on the part of Mrs. Johns. Her services were not satisfactory after her first term and last year she agreed to co operate with the teachers and school board if re engaged but she failed to do so during the last term, consequently she has not been hired for the next term. The matter was placed before County Supt., of Schools, Edward J. Tobin before the new teacher was hired. We have a signed contract with her and can not consider re-engaging Mrs. Johns. If outsiders want to run the affairs of the school board what is the use of electing school directors," hard working man and was anxious to advance. Within the last few months his wife would not co operate with him he says. Mr. Nemeth also states that there is another man in the case.

Mr. Nemeth blames undue relatives in law influence as the source of all his trouble.

Former Saloon To Be Grocery Store

George F. Wannemacher of Mokena who has been conducting a soft drink parlor, is going out of business and will open a grocery store in the building now occupied by the saloon. The passing of this establishment leaves only one soft drink parlor in the village.

The many friends of Mr. Wannemacher are glad to see him make this change and wish him a big measure of success in his new venture and he ought to be most liberally encouraged.

May 25 Official Cleanup Day

The village council of Mokena have designated May 25th as the official cleanup day for the village.

The citizens are requested to put all rubbish in boxes and barrels and placed where it will be handy for the rubbish hauler to pick up.

The city dads have tabooed the use of sacks to put rubbish in as often the sacks are old and tear the rubbish to spill making extra work in picking up.

Orland License Case Takes New Angle

In last week's issue of the News-Bulletin appeared a story to the effect that the village council of Orland had granted a license to Walter Kramer to run a saloon in the Kruspe building.

Monday night George C. Yunker called at the News-Bulletin and stated the license in question had been issued to him and that Mr. Kramer had nothing to do with it. Mr. Yunker further said he was not running a saloon but a soft drink parlor and that he has removed the shades from the windows and that those who are on the outside looking in his place, ought to come in and be convinced that he is running a straight place. He says he will not sell booze nor violate the prohibition law. It is hoped that he will fulfill this promise to the letter.

C. Grosskopf of Orland Passes On

Christoff Grosskopf for 55 years a resident of Orland, answered the call of his Lord on Sunday morning having attained the age of 84 years, 2 months and 6 days. For the last 4 years his mentality was somewhat impaired, so that he was unable to work and had to be under constant care of his beloved wife and son Wm.

Mr. Grosskopf was born in Germany March 4 1841 and when 20 years old he migrated to this country. Since April 10, 1870 when he was united in marriage to Miss Fredricka Pinoe, he has been a resident of Orland, having then settled on the farm. He was well known, having done the threshing for many around this territory for a good many years.

He leaves to mourn his departure beside his wife one daughter, Mrs. Katherine Brandt of Orland, 3 sons; Wm. of Orland, Ernest and Christel of Unity, Sask., Canada, 1 brother Louis of Blue Island and 5 grandchildren and many other relatives and friends.

Funeral services were held from the late home to Christ Lutheran church at Orland Friday, Rev. W. C. Greve officiating.

MRS. STEFFEN SR., ORLAND SURPRISED ON BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Philip Steffen Sr., was pleasantly surprised on her birthday Sunday by her daughters. A bountiful dinner was served the center piece being a beautiful birthday cake and flowers. The afternoon was spent in playing games and music. Mrs. Steffen received many lovely gifts. The out of town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Murphy and daughters Irene and La verne of Lockport, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fox and children of Mokena, Mr. and Mrs. C. Jungles and son of Lemont, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Steffen Jr. and others.

Orland Catholic Church Gets Bell

Rev. J. Daly, former pastor of St. Michael's stopped for a few moments in the town recently. He wished to call at the little church, whose building he supervised and also to investigate the real estate boom of Orland. He has friends who are desirous of buying lots in this active town along the Wash.

With the donation of $1000, part of which was expended on a carriage marble statue of the Sacred Heart which is to be imported from Italy, the interior furnishings of the new church are practically complete. The parishioners feel that the simple beauty and harmonious whole are due to the intense interest and labor of the present pastor, Rev. Zurlinden. The donor of the above mentioned sum was Miss Helen McGinnis, daughter of the late Dr. James McGinnis a former resident of Orland.

To the parishioners, as well as to many others, the bell which has been recently installed, was a welcome relief from the unresonant clang of the former one. Now it will not be necessary for the male population of the town, who forgot the new fire siren, to hurriedly arise some early hour of the morning and climb under their suspenders only to sadly realize that, after all, there was no fire to go to. The erecting of the belfry and placing of the bell was the work of Anthony Jungles.

The trustees of St. Michael's have made plans for the wrecking of the old church which is at the extreme western end of the township. In the next slack season on the farm, if such a time there be, the men of the parish will under take the work. The lumber will be retained for the future of the church.

Many members of the parish attended and greatly enjoyed "The Dime Question" as presented by the Sota players of Joliet at St. John's Evangelical Church, in Mokena. A relative of some of the members of the Orland church, Miss M. Wagner, daughter of Cass Wagner of Joliet, was in the cast. Very skillfully she portrayed the brazen girl of the runaway marriage.

One of the regular card and bunco parties given by the church is scheduled for Saturday May 23rd.

Orland Beats Palos Third Time

Orland beats Palos Park third time. What? Again? Yes! Orland played Palos Park who had loaded up their team and who came out to beat Orland. A crowd of 250 were present to see Palos and their enemy battle to a finish. And it was some game. Up to the 7th, Palos had Orland beaten, yes, we'll admit, but some of that good dynamite was used in the 8th and after the last out eleven tallies had been marked for Orland. Everyone got a hit that inning and all batted around. Ten hits alone being made this inning. That crowd of fans is still hoarse from yelling. It is stated that it could be heard one mile away. So boys, and ladies don't forget the ladies, let's all cheer and help our boys along who seemingly defeated [faced] about and came home with the bacon.

Next Sunday a team from Chicago will try to match up against Orland. Lets Go!

This Is Foxy Story of Forest Preserves

Two enterprising young men of Orland have recently engaged in Fox Ranching. They are starting with eight young foxes and hope to rival the Lincoln Park Menagerie ere long.

In talking to one of the partners we learned that they have talked of adding other wild animals to their collection and starting a zoo of their own.

Their ranch is located 2½ miles south of the Village of Orland and has been leased for an indefinite term of years for Mr. Oscar Strand.

Some folks say that true stories are better illustrated with facts, so here are the facts in the case.

While Oscar Strand was working in the field about half way between Orland and Alpine Heights, he noticed a Fox strolling leisurely in the turf slough. He watched it for sometime before he found where it had its hiding place.

Upon arriving at home Mr. Strand told his son Donald and he in turn notified his pal Wm. Beagley Jr. They immediately took a spade, some gunny sacks and commandeered an old Ford and motored forth in search of the Fox's nest.

The run way was about two feet deep and ran back in several directions for a distance of some seventy feet. After considerable digging, they came to a nest of 8 young foxes about three months old.

These two young men are bursting with pride over their find as it has been a long time since foxes roamed in this part of the country.

So much for the facts, now to go back to our story. If any one catches any gophers, rabbits, skunks or what not, kindly send them to the Beagley Strand Fox Company. A free pass will be given for each wild animal received.

Movies at Orland Draw Full House

The church was packed last Friday evening to see the reel comedy drama, "Daddies", and by the amount of laughter during the evening everyone thoroughly enjoyed the amusing adventures of the Bachelors' Club. A one reel comedy was also shown. Because of the large crowds which are coming to see the pictures, the committee in charge is able to show one or two reels of comedy each evening in addition to the large picture of five to seven reels. Next Friday evening, May 22nd the picture is Wesley Barr gin "The Country Kid". The show begins at 8:30 p. m. Daylight Saving Time. The great patriotic picture "America" which is scheduled for Friday, May 29th will also be shown on Decoration Day, Saturday, May 30.

Frankfort Principal Ousted; Intoxication Charge Against Him

Last week Prof. B. A. Saulman, principal of the Frankfort public school told the editor of the NEWS-BULLETIN that he has resigned his position as principal on account of ill health and that he would be compelled to give up teaching entirely, altho he had planned to attend college in Indiana. As a matter of news a brief item appeared in THE NEWS-BULLETIN giving the above story.

The first of this week the editor was informed of the true facts in the case, these being, that Prof. Saulman was charged with being drunk and County Supt. of schools August Maue, revoked his teachers certificate. The following letter received by the NEWS-BULLETIN from a resident of Frankfort town ship gives the facts in the case. The name of the writer is in the possession of the NEWS-BULLETIN but is withheld from publication with the letter:

"Editor News-Bulletin:

In your issue for May 8th it is reported that B. A. Saulman, principal of the Frankfort public school, resigned on account of ill health and that he will be obliged to give up teaching entirely.

The facts are these—Evidence was presented to August Maue, County Supt. of Schools, that B. A. Saulman had been drunk while holding the position of principal of the Frankfort public school. Mr. Maue at once compelled Mr. Saulman to resign, and stated that he would not renew the principal's teacher's certificate, which accounts for Mr. Saulman's determination to give up teaching. These facts may be verified by referring to the County Supt. of Schools.

The pitiful thing about the situation is, that, although the Frankfort people have known for some time the character of the principal of their school, and have realized his unfitness to be the teacher of their children, yet they waited for an outsider to step in and remove him from his position. An awakened public conscience would long ago have demanded and secured his removal.

Nor can the people of Frankfort escape a certain responsibility for Mr. Saulman's delinquency, for by permitting liquor to be sold in the village, they have contributed to his down fall."

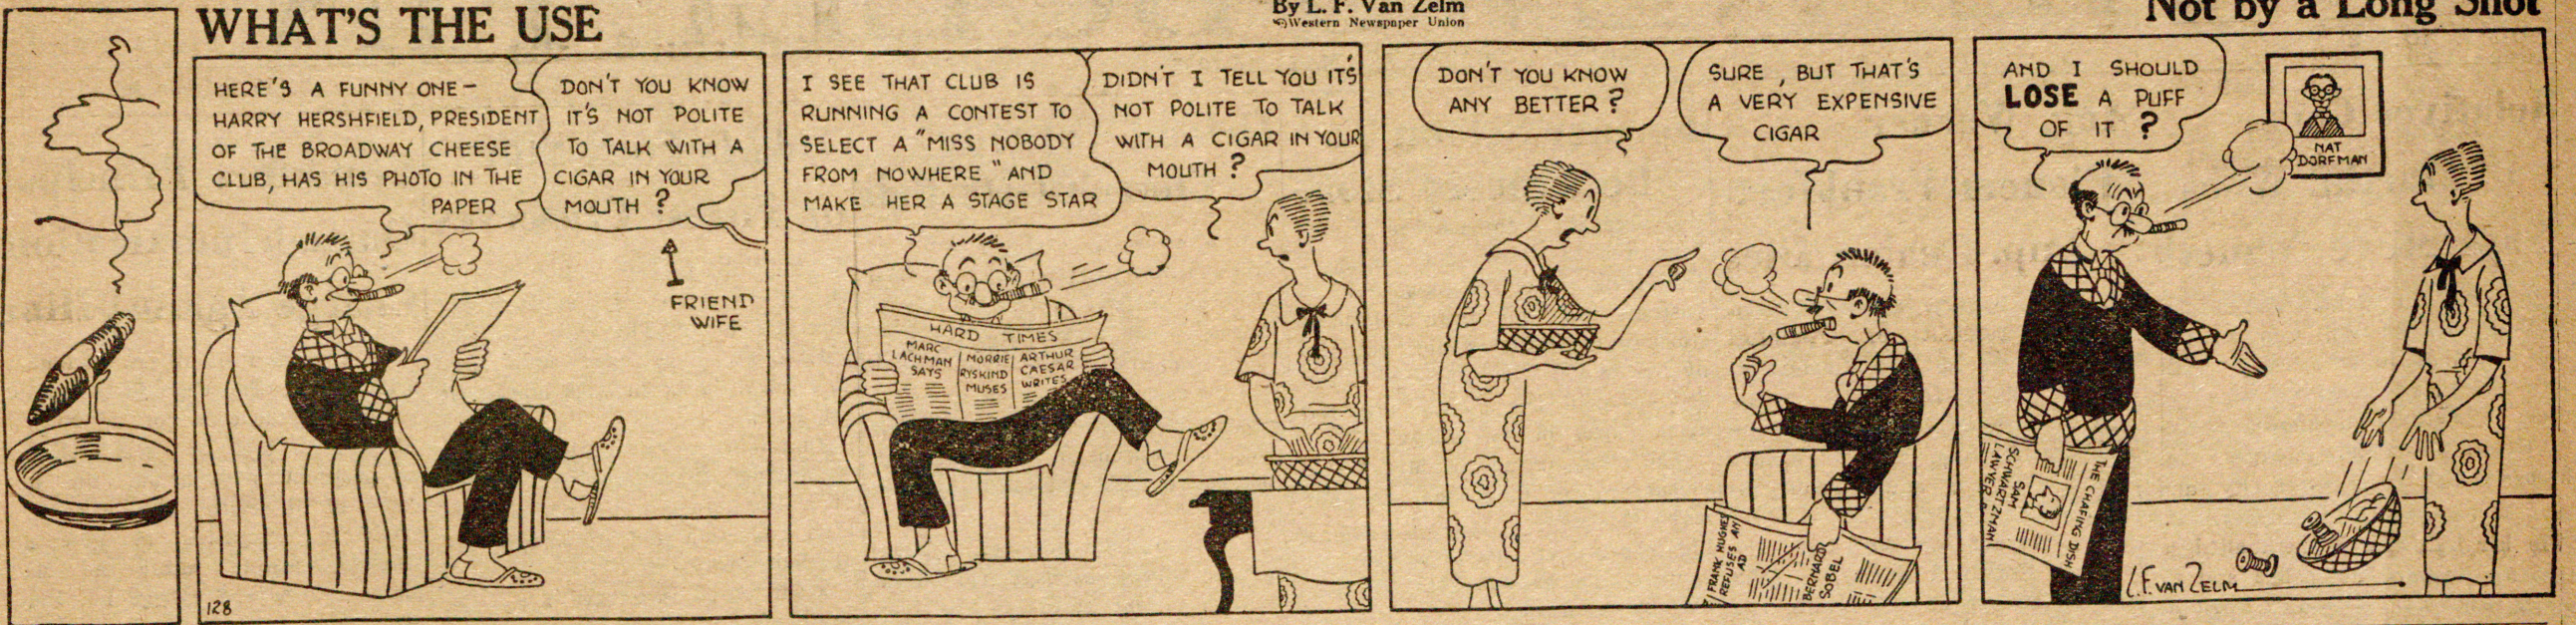

The people of Frankfort are directly to blame for the down fall of the young school professor, for they have allowed booze joints to operate in their village and to dispense the damnable stuff that raises hell and ends in sorrow and disgrace. Here is a promising young man with a future and suddenly he falls to the temptation of the booze which is offered him so freely and he falls! Were there no booze joints in Frankfort undoubtedly the young teacher would not have fallen and would still hold his position of honor and trust.

It is hoped that Frankfort has enough civic pride left to see that prohibition is enforced against these local grog joints. Get the evidence like Orland did, and brand those fellows who are caught selling booze, as outlaws and drive them out of the community.

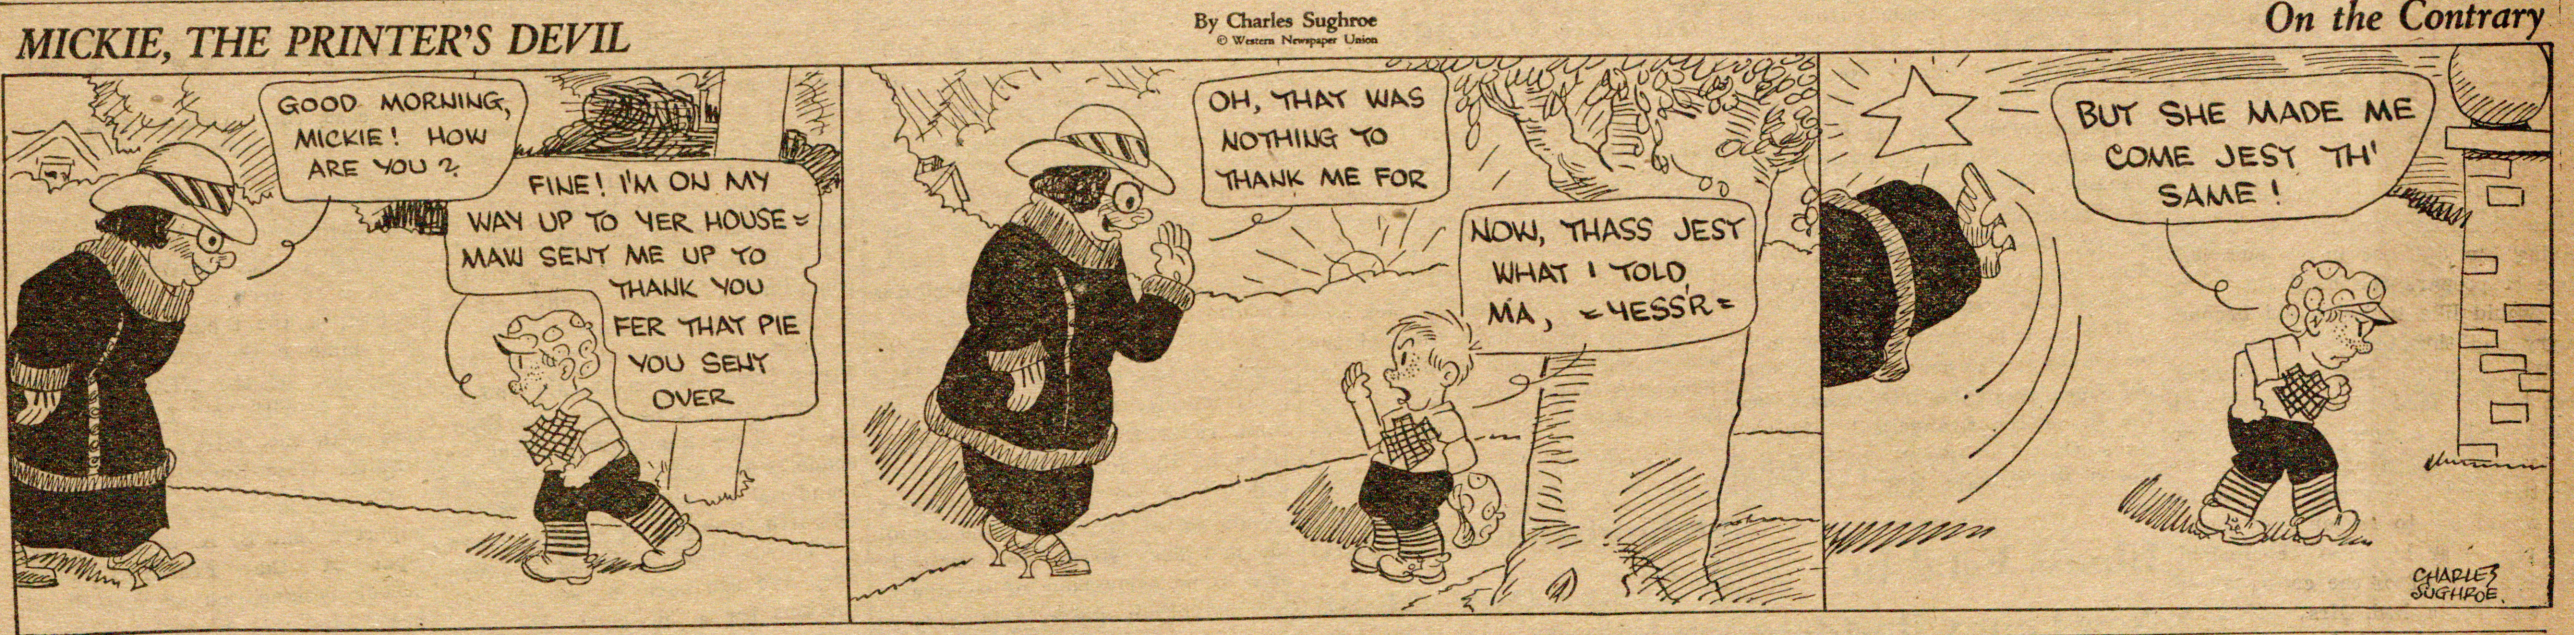

A few raids were pulled off here recently which were the biggest farce of the age. The local saloonists had knowledge that a raid was to be pulled several hours before the raiding squad arrived from Joliet according to information in possession of the dry forces. The next day another raid was pulled off but only after the saloonists had got wind of it again and had all their stuff hidden.

A splendid example of law enforcement. Some one in a position to know is tipping the saloonists, when a raid is eminent and thus help them evade the law. Any public official who swears to uphold the law and then deliberately violates it is in the same class with criminals.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

DR. FREDERICK R. GREEN
Editor of "HEALTH"

EATING A THIRD OF YOUR INCOME

HOW much of your income do you eat? If less than one-third you are more careful than the average.

Ten years ago, one-fifth of one's income was considered enough to spend on food. Today, according to a survey made by the American Academy of Political and Social Science, American families spend from 35 to 40 per cent of their incomes for food. That means that we eat one-third to half of all we earn.

The retail storekeepers have an organization through which they keep track of what the American public buys and how much it pays. In 1909, the purchase of food of all kinds at retail stores amounted to $4,000,000,- 000. By 1921 this had doubled. "Of course," you say, "that was war prices." But since 1921 it has doubled again!

The total national annual income, what we all of us earn in a year by our work, whatever it is, is $68,000,- 000,000. Of this, $35,000,000,000 is spent at retail stores. Nearly one-half of this, or $15,000,000,000, is spent for food, while another billion and a half goes for candy and soft drinks, which are additional food.

Naturally, spending this amount for food, we ought to be the best-fed nation on earth. We are. Estimated in calories or heat-producing units, the body needs about 2,000 calories a day for its own nourishment. How much more is needed depends on one's work.
Ruhner estimated that a clerk doing sedentary work needs 500 calories additional or 2,500. A professional man needs a little more, or 2,600, while laborers at different trades need from 3,000 to 4,000, depending on the kind of work. Atwater, the American authority, says from 2,700 to 4,500.

The average consumption in this country is 3,700 or 700 heat units a day more than is needed. Now food that is not burned up by work in the body is converted into fat, and the money paid for such food is not only wasted but the fat clogs the body and makes it necessary for us to carry just that much more weight.

Take one kind of food only—sugar.
Seventy-four years ago the average person ate about three pounds of sugar a year. Today the average is 100 pounds. S. Americans eat 18 pounds of candy per person every year. It isn't any wonder that the discovery of insulin was hailed with joy. Diabetes, formerly a very rare disease, is now common and increasing in frequency.

One-third of all your income is too much to put into your stomach. Simpler foods and less of them will make you richer and happier.

CATCHING DISEASE BY HAND

THE Chinese are supposed to do everything just the opposite from what we do. Of course, that's silly, though they probably think it's silly for us to do just the opposite from what they do.

But in one practice, at least, they show more sense than we do. When a Chinaman meets a friend he bows and shakes, not his friend's hand, but his own hand.

Historians tell us that handshaking originate among savages. Two men of different tribes and unknown to each other would meet in the forest or on the plains. The one who first saw the other would hold up his right hand to show that he had no weapon in it. This custom survived in the Roman salute which you can see in "Quo Vadis" and still exists in the salute of the Fascists. When Mus-solini's legions march past their chief, they all greet him with the right arm raised and the open palm turned toward the reviewing stand.

In the Middle ages, the knights weren't satisfied to have their associates show an empty hand, they wanted to hold each other's right hand, so as to be sure that the other fellow couldn't pull a knife. So when two knights met they grasped hands and didn't let go as long as they were within striking distance.

Today handshaking is a survival of these old customs. It is not only meaningless but it is a severe physical strain on presidents, governors and other prominent men. Many a candidate has worn himself out shaking hands for votes.

But handshaking is not only tiresome, it is dirty and dangerous. We handle all sorts of unclean things with our bare hands—door knobs, books and newspapers, car rails and straps, things that hundreds of other people have handled. Then we meet a friend who has also handled dirty things and for fear we may have some kind of dirt he hasn't, we clasp hands and rub them together.

When we have a cold, we cough into our hands and when we meet our friends, we give them each a sample.
We swap colds and wonder why our own doesn't get better or why we have a new one.

In the winter and spring, when colds and coughs are common, keep your hands clean, wear gloves and when you meet your friends shake hands Chinese fashion. Especially be careful to wash your hands before eating.

RUM WAR STARTS ON GREAT LAKES

Dry Navy Seizes 3 Launches
Loaded With Liquor—
7 Men Held.

Detroit.—The first severe blow dealt rum runners on the Great Lakes this spring came when two boats of the dry navy seized three motor boats loaded with 10 quarter barrels of beer, 642 quarts of whisky, and 10,920 quarts of beer, and arrested seven men.

The first capture was made at Es-tral Beach, where a 38-foot motor boat was overtaken. Twelve cases of whisky and 253 cartons of beer were found on the boat and Cyril M. Blackmore of Toledo and William Mies of Chicago were arrested.

On the second boat, a 25-footer, the officers found 200 cases of beer and beer, 3 cases of whisky, and 202 cases of beer. Frank J. Jarvis, William Jones and Sidney Taylor, all of Kingsville, Ont., were arrested.

On the other boat, a 30-footer, the officers found 200 cases of beer and 22 cases of whisky. Harold Waldecker of Carlton, Mich., and Raymond La-Fontaine of Newport, Mich., were arrested.

All seven men pleaded not guilty
when arraigned before Commissioner J. Stanley Hurd in United States District court and were held under bond of $2,000 each for examination on May 19.

The rum runners were expected to take advantage of the mist to seek to land some of their liquor for the week-end trade in New York, where approaching aridity has been reported in the last few days.

New York.—Rum runners and coast guard vessels fought a skirmish off the Jersey coast. The battle was a draw. The blockade runner escaped, but lost its cargo.

Just before daybreak a 45-foot cabin cruiser dashed for the shore near Cape May. A patrol boat opened fire.
The bootleggers returned the fire and more than four hundred shots were discharged.

The slower craft of the dry navy was outmaneuvered, but the race was so close that the smuggler dumped overboard 100 cases of liquor before it disappeared. These cases were recovered by the patrol boat.

Three Die in Flames When Airplane Crashes

Salt Lake City, Utah.—A. Clarion Nelson, former superintendent of the ice, piloting a biplane, crashed, killing two passengers, Grant Christensen and Russell de Loge, both eighteen years old, were instantly killed at Woodward flying field here when the plane went into a tailspin and fell from an altitude of 100 feet.

The plane burst into flames and the bodies were badly charred, delaying identification of the two youths for several hours. The plane had just taken off in the face of a strong west wind, when it sideslipped and fell into a tailspin. Several persons who attempted to rescue the men from the burning plane suffered painful injuries.

Maj. Gen. Bullard III in New York Hospital

New York.—Maj. Gen. Robert Lee Bullard, retired, who commanded the American second army in the World war, is in the army hospital at Fort Totten, Staten island, suffering from congestion of the lungs and possible pneumonia, it was learned. His physicians said he was improving, but that he probably would be in the hospital for about two weeks.

General Bullard is sixty-four years old. He retired from the army last January, when he was commander of the Second corps area.

Murder Witness Slain With Ax Near Crown Point

Chicago.—Frank Cochran of Crown Point, Ind., killed by an ax murderer, was the victim of professional Chicago killers, both Chicago and Indiana authorities declared. The technique, the daring, and the apparent motive all bespoke the trademarked Chicago brand of murder, police agreed.

Cochran had witnessed the murder of Thad S. Fancher, a Crown Point attorney, a year ago. His identification had convicted two men. Three others, well-known Chicago gunners, are still at large.

Woman Is Found Guilty of Poisoning Husband

Chicago.—Twelve jurors in Judge
William V. Brothers' court found Bernice Zallimas, blonde Lithuanian beauty, guilty of killing her husband, Dominick, with arsenic and they fixed her punishment at 14 years in the penitentiary.

Serious operation avoided

Resinol healed stubborn sore

Elyria, Ohio, March 1:—"I feel it my duty and pleasure to thank you for the wonderful cure your Resinol salve has wrought
for my husband, who suffered from an open sore on the back of his neck for four years. Several doctors said that it was a cancer and advised its removal, but it was so near the base of the brain that we feared an operation. I had found Resinol Ointment so effective for cuts, burns and similar things that I induced my husband to try that.
After using only two jars of Resinol, the sore entirely healed—every trace of it has disappeared.
Resinol certainly was a God-send to us!" (Signed) Mrs. E. E. Kennedy, 243 E. 8th St.

As it happened she was not versed in

DOWN STATE SENTIMENT IN FAVOR OF GAS TAX IS GAINING MOMENTUM

Sentiment for a gas tax in Illinois which has been smoldering quietly is now beginning to break out with enthusiasm in all parts of the State, according to Sam H. Thompson, president of the Illinois Agricultural Association in a statement to Will County Farmers.

President Thompson states that the amendment to the Cuthbertson gas tax bill introduced this week in the Senate at Springfield has done a great deal to bring support to the gas tax cause it gives counties a chance to invest their own money in their own roads as they see fit.

This amendment provided for the division of the estimated annual gas tax revenue of $10,000,000 on a "20-60-20" basis.

That is, under the I. A. A. amendment, 20 per cent of the $10,000,000 will go direct to the State Highway Commission to be expended with a view of state-wide and county to county travel; 60 per cent will go back to the counties on the basis of their motor license fees and 20 per cent more will be back to the counties for their own use on the basis of their millages of state aid roads.

"In most of the counties," said President Thompson, "this amendment returns more than enough money to replace the county highway tax which our association is very desirous of removing. A removal of this tax will mean a tremendous saving of all Illinois tax payers both city and country. Besides lessening the excessive burden now carried by all property, the gas tax will provide means for every motorist to pay in exact proportion to the amount he uses and wears out the state's highways."

Another amendment was introduced to the Cuthbertson bill, Mr. Thompson said, but the association does not favor it because of its provision to give 50 per cent to the State Highway commission. It would be an addition tax instead of a lien tax. The Illinois Agricultural Association, he said, is fighting for reduction of taxes and consequently wants a gas tax as a lien tax.

"The gas tax fight now centers on how the funds shall be distributed," he said. "These two amendments represent two schools of thought as to division of the funds, both groups of which favor the gas tax as an equitable tax. These groups constitute a big majority in the Senate."

Provision is made in the Cuthbertson gas tax bill for exemption of gasoline not used on public highways.

E. church Sunday morning, the special musical numbers were; a duet by Miss Helen Briggs and Mrs. Wm. Freck, a solo by Miss Clarice Mahaffy with the choir singing the chorus and several songs about "Mother" by the congregation. Each mother present received a greeting card and a flower.

THE Vanishing Men

By Richard Washburn Child

This clever and intensely interesting story of romance and mystery by the eminent lawyer-diplomat-author, one of America's leading public men, will be printed as a serial in this paper. It is a rapid-fire tale of intrigue, crime, suspense and expiation, and unfolds the strange story of Brena Selcross about whom there was a fate which manifested itself in the disappearance of her lovers. A wonderful story, as anyone knows who has read "Jim Hands," "The Man in the Shadow," "The Hands of Nara," "Velvet Black" or other of Mr. Child's remarkable tales.

Late Saturday afternoon while driving toward home in her auto Miss Mable Schieck figured in an auto collision.

Ed. Mangun of New Lenox was heading west on the street in front of Gilbert Hurley corner and in turning on the street running north and south, he ran almost directly in front of Miss Schieck's car and she could not avoid hitting his car. As her car was a much larger and heavier one, it knocked Mr. Mangun's Ford off the road in to the ditch. Luckily no one was hurt. Both cars were slightly damaged.

R. I. Freights Run On Fast Schedule

The heretofore unromantic freight train is getting all "fussed up" to attract public attention. The "limited" passenger train of song and story and movie drama is going to have a competitor in the freight "racers" now being gotten underway on the Rock Island railroad to establish some speed records in the moving of freight trains west of Chicago.

The first of these trains went on recently between Silvis, Illinois—where the big clearing yards are—and Arundale, Kansas, covering a run of about 440 miles on a schedule that competes with the fast transcontinental passenger limited trains. Another similar freight train has just been inaugurated between Chicago and Dallas, Texas.

The freight trainmen of the Rock Island are all "on their toes" about the "racer freights" and the engineers are competing for the honor of pulling the throttle on these "preferred runs" in order to demonstrate to their more or less fortunate fellow passenger-engineers that a freight can run on an on-time fast schedule, too.

This new freight service is being carried out under the direction of S. H. Johnson, Vice President and Freight Traffic Manager of the Rock Island Lines, with headquarters in Chicago.

Lovely Asiatic Spot

Land of Deep Mystery

The Bay of Along, extending for 60 miles along the coast of northern Tongking, is said to be one of the most beautiful spots in Asia. It is a region of mystery and silence, chiefly inhabited by troops of monkeys, wild sheep and red eagles, according to Asia Magazine.

Until recently the countless islands offered a favorite hiding place for Chinese pirates, who preyed on coastal trade. Chinese junks and sampans belonging to fisher folk ply through the secluded waters among the giant rocks, which emerge like summits of submerged mountains, carved by wind and wave into incredibly fantastic shapes.

Tongking and Annam, since 1844 under a French protectorate, officially shook off the Chinese yoke in the Fifteenth century, though tribute was irregularly paid to Peking as late as the French occupation.

Bulgaria has a special law to prevent the import of "luxury" goods. Under the heading of "luxury" come such things as perfumes, wines and expensive silks. But that is not all. Recently an American lady wishing to make a tour in the provinces, and having been warned that hotel rooms were not always of the cleanest, went to a chemist and asked for a bottle of insect powder. Chapter XII

-17-

Without a sound Lancaster leaped at him.

Joan saw the secretary snatch up the lamp and hold it on high. She heard his screaming, terrified voice above the uproar. He stood like some squat statue illuminating the space above the dark in which Lancaster and Lawson sprawled, clutching at each other like two primeval cave men.

It was grotesque, for it was like a man fighting with himself; and, in fact, it might have been Lancaster fighting with his evil angel. He was no match for Lawson, but at first his pent-up fury, at last unleashed, matched the two equally. Then Lawson flung his adversary from him and struggled to his knees. As Lancaster grasped him and tried to rise he flung him down again. Lancaster's head struck the corner of the iron bedstead. His hands unclosed; he sighed and lay perfectly still. Joan saw the look of malignant rage upon Lawson's face, saw him raise his heel above the face of the unconscious man. He would have ground out Lancaster's life, but that Joan pulled the revolver from her pocket and thrust it into his face for the second time.

Lawson staggered backward, rage and terror depleted upon his features in the light of the swaying oil lamp. At that moment Myers was crouching near her. He set the lamp down. Joan felt a sharp pain in the upper part of her arm. She saw the secretary putting something into his pocket. He dodged the wavering revolver and backed toward the door, pulling Lawson with him.

"I'm going to finish this!" yelled Lawson.

Myers clutched at him and pulled him into the hall. Joan heard Myers' eager whispers, and Lawson's struggles and angry muttering gradually subsided.

Then she heard them enter the secretary's room, and, forgetting them instantly, she bent over Lancaster and raised his head upon her knee.

He was breathing heavily. The blow had only stunned him. Joan tried to lift him upon the bed, but he was too heavy for her. As she was attempting to do so, however, the door opened and Mrs. Fraser came in.

"I found a key," she whispered, trembling. "I heard them fighting. Heaven help me, what has that devil done to the doctor?"

"He isn't badly hurt," said Joan. "Help me get him upon the bed."

Mrs. Fraser and Joan succeeded. Lancaster lay there, still unconscious. The matron clung heavily to the bedstead, looking at Joan piteously.

"I know it all now," she muttered. "I should have known before if I'd listened to the Millville gossip. That devil is his brother."

"Yes," said Joan shortly. "What are you going to do, Mrs. Fraser?"

"I'm going to stand by the doctor," the woman answered. "I stood by him year after year when I thought he was possessed by an evil spirit. Wouldn't I stand by him now?"

"Good," said Joan. "And I, too. Tomorrow we'll make short work of those men."

"Heaven save you, you don't know that man, Miss Wentworth," muttered the matron. "He's a devil. He has no pity. And he has a devil ten times worse than himself."

"Myers? Who is he?"

"He was his assistant here. He was tried once, they tell me, for poisoning his sweetheart. He sent her candy—but they couldn't find any poison in her body. It was his master made the analysis, and he lied to get Myers free and have his hold on him. It's all plain to me now, Miss Wentworth."

"If you knew this," said Joan, "you should have told me; you should have told the police, told anyone rather than let him drug Doctor Lancaster day after day."

"I thought it was the doctor who was in league with him," the matron muttered. "Miss Wentworth, I'm timid, I'm easily frightened, but not another day will I keep silent. Tomorrow—"

"Yes, tomorrow," said Joan. "You'd better go to bed now, Mrs. Fraser. I'll guard the doctor with my revolver, and tomorrow we'll end these years of slavery. Doctor Lancaster is a free man. Think of him as a free man. The past is all behind us."

The matron slipped away stealthily to her room. Joan took her seat beside Lancaster, listening to the incoherent mutterings which had begun. Presently his eyes opened. He stared at her for some minutes until recognition came into them.

"Joan!" he whispered, stretching out his hand to hers.

She let him take and hold it, and sat beside him, while he began muttering again. Gradually he began to realize where he was, and to remember.

"It is all true, then, Joan," he said. "He has had his revenge for his fancied wrongs. He has had the best years of my life, and he has beaten me in the end."

"Beaten you?" asked Joan. "You are not beaten. They are at their wits' ends what to do now, and tomorrow you will send them packing and begin your new life."

"A pitiful hope," he answered. "For he has given me back one thing—my faith in that poor woman upstairs, and, with it, a greater faith in humanity; but he has robbed me of all my hope."

"Why, John?"

"Because I could not have imagined that humanity was so vile. Joan, I am crushed by his revelation. If he entered this room now I feel that his will would dominate mine."

"Those are the words of a sick man," said Joan. "Tomorrow you will adjust yourself. Tomorrow you will be strong. Why, hardly a man on earth could do what you have done with the morphine."

"I suppose I shall carry on my fight," he answered wearily. "But victory will mean nothing to me."

"I shall stand by your side until I have seen you conquer, and until I have seen you happy in your success."

"And then, Joan?"

"Then? Then I shall go somewhere, I suppose."

"Go away? From me? Is it because of Mrs. Dana?"

"Because of her, John."

"But she is nothing to me. She was never anything. Even my monomania of revenge rose out of wounded pride, not love. Surely you will not leave me because I once thought that I loved another?"

"It isn't that, John. But, you see, she has been an integral part of your life all these years. Even though her mind was gone, there was the consciousness of her presence that ate into your brain; she was the mainspring of your existence here. She would have been your wife today, but for that dastard's scheme. She is innocent, she has been deeply wronged, and her life has become bound up with yours indissolubly. You see, John, there is no getting away from that."

"Joan, don't you know she hates me? She thinks that my death will avenge her wrongs and cure her of her troubles. She has tried three times to kill me. In some mysterious manner she has learned the location of my room. Once she stabbed me in the wrist with a table-knife. Once she got the matron's revolver, but fortunately it was unloaded. I have been planning to send her somewhere where she could be better cared for and where my presence would not be a constant incitation to her."

Joan shook her head. "It is all part of the past," she said. "One can't cancel the past. One must just carry it with one and try to profit by it. You know that, John."

"You do not love me, Joan."

She turned her face away; tears that filled her eyes came from the depths of her being. Lancaster took both her hands in his.

"You love me, Joan?"

"Too well to wrong you and myself," she answered. "Too well to let our love build a wall between us. So well that I would rather let the spiritual bond remain, rather than mar it."

He drew her toward him, and she remained with her cheek resting against his, with his arms about her. She could not stir. A strange physical lethargy seemed to hold her limbs, but her will was unshaken.

"Your last word, Joan?" whispered Lancaster.

"No, dear," she answered.

The humorous look that came at such odd moments into Lancaster's eyes flickered there now. "Your very last?" he asked.

"O, don't ask me to deny my resolution," she said.

She released herself and stood beside him. As she did so she had a sensation as if her feet rested on a cushion of air. Her physical weakness was matched by her sense of instability; she longed with all her heart to lean within the arms outstretched toward her; she knew that, if she had given Lancaster life, he could give her the strength of life; he was of her own people, and all that she had loved seemed embodied in him. And before her she saw the closing hospital walls of some far distant city; she must exile herself from everything that she had known.

"You little stubborn thing, Joan!" said Lancaster tenderly. "But I shall go on loving you."

"I shall love you, John."

"I shall hear from you sometimes?"

"Yes. And I shall remain in Avonmouth until your battle is won. But there will be no battle. They know that they are beaten. You will never be weak again."

"No," said Lancaster. "But, O Joan, if you had said 'yes' to me it would have been so easy."

With the maternal feeling that is part of every woman's love for the man she loves, she stooped and kissed his forehead.

"You must try to sleep now," she said. "I shall leave the revolver with you, and you shall lock your door."

"I am not afraid of them," he answered. "They can do nothing, Joan. Keep it to assure you of your own safety."

That seemed the better way. There was nothing that the pair could do to Lancaster. If they aimed at anyone it would be she. She saw that, and she went out without speaking to Lancaster again. In the hall she breathed more freely. It was ended now, and she knew that she had done the right thing, the only possible thing. But Lancaster had not surmised the terrific woman's battle which she had fought during those last few minutes.

She stood in the hall for a few moments in uncertainty. She did not mean to sleep, but to lie awake with her door open, resting, and listening for any movements in the house. But, though her brain was awake, she was more tired than she had ever been in her life. She could hardly drag her limbs upstairs, and again she had that sense of walking on air. Under the little burning lamp she stopped again to gather strength to go to her room. The ticking of the clock in the hall below was the only sound in the house. She strained her ears to catch the sound of voices from Myers' room, but she could hear nothing. Yet the men could not be asleep. They must be planning together.

The silence in the ramshackle old building was a ghastly one. It seemed to hide innumerable thoughts, as if those of all who had ever lived within its walls survived, breaking upon her brain in invisible waves. She felt enmeshed in a web, as the dreamer who struggles to wake into free life from the horrors of nightmare. The wind had gone down, and the raindrops dripped rhythmically from the eaves.

Joan had an intense inclination to surrender, to run back into Lancaster's room, cry to him to help her, to let her fight beside him as long as they lived. And the silence, which was becoming more terrific every moment, was unmistakably malevolent.

She reached her room and tried to shake away her fears. She went to the window and leaned out. The night was clearing, and a delicious air blew in from the hills. Not a light was to be seen in Millville or Lancaster. And she wept again, heartbroken. It was all ended, that peace which had begun to inclose her, and all her hopes, and all that love within was bound up so intimately with the idea of home.

Genius of Philology

Given Stern Justice

Curious pleas have sometimes been put forward in support of the reprieve of notorious criminals. One of the strangest was that on behalf of George Ruloff, an American school teacher, who was convicted in 1870 of a series of robberies and murders. His own wife and daughter being among the victims. For cold-blooded cruelty his record would be hard to beat, but Ruloff had his other side.

He was an ardent philologist, and had been engaged for years on the invention of a universal language. No one could attempt to palliate his crimes, but a widely signed petition was presented to the governor of Virginia for his reprieve on the ground that as his invention, if completed, would be of the utmost benefit to mankind it would be criminal folly to extinguish such a light of learning. The governor thought otherwise and Ruloff was duly hanged.

Copying Nature

Cover a billiard table in a bright red cloth instead of the customary soft green and every billiard hall would be deserted in half an hour. Billiard tables from the beginning were covered with green for the same reason that nature covers her open stretches usually with green, because it is soothing to the eye.

SAUL BECOMES A CHRISTIAN

LESSON—TEXT—Acts 9:1-19.
GOLDEN TEXT—"If any man be in Christ Jesus, he is a new creature."—II Cor. 5:17.

PRIMARY TOPIC—A Man Who Helped Another.
JUNIOR TOPIC—How Saul Became a Christian.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Saul Was Converted.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—A Study of Conversion.

I. Saul's Violent Hatred of the Lord's Disciples (vv. 1-2).

Saul knew full well that unless the movement set on foot by Jesus was stopped, it would supersede Judaism. He was ignorant of the genius of Christianity. He did not know that the "blood of martyrs is the seed of the church." The noble display of faith by Stephen in sealing his testimony with his blood did not soften Saul's spirit, but rather intensified his hatred for Jesus and His disciples. It made him more determined than ever to stamp out the Nazarene heresy. The intensity of his madness, and the extent of its operations are best set forth in his own words, "And I persecuted this way unto the death, binding and delivering into prisons both men and women" (Acts 22:4). "I both shut up many of the saints in prisons having received authority from the chief priests, and when they were put to death, I gave my voice against them, and punishing them off in all synagogues I strove to make them blasphemers, and being exceedingly mad against them, I persecuted them even unto foreign cities" (Acts 26:10-12 R. V.).

II. Saul Kicking Against the Pricks (vv. 3-9).

The figure here is that of the Eastern ox driver following the ox with a sharp iron fixed to the end of a pole. The animal is prodded on with this instrument and if it is refractory it kicks against the sharp iron and injures itself. This is a picture of Saul as he was madly fighting against Jesus.

1. A Light From Heaven (vv. 3-4a).

The time had come for the Lord to interfere. Saul was stricken with blindness and fell to the earth. This physical demonstration accentuated the workings of his conscience which doubtless were going on quickened by the Holy Spirit as He used Stephen's testimony.

2. A Voice From Heaven (vv. 4b-5).

This was the Lord's voice calling Saul by name and asking, "Why persecutest thou Me?" This moved Saul to inquire, "Who art thou, Lord?" The answer came, "I am Jesus, whom thou persecutest." He is so closely identified with believers that He feels their sufferings and regards treatment of them as treatment of Himself.

3. Saul's Inquiry (v. 6). "What Wilt Thou Have Me to Do?"

The Lord told him to go into the city where information would be given him as to what he must do.

4. Saul Entering Damascus (vv. 7-9).

The haughty persecutor went quite humbly into Damascus, led by his attendants. For the space of three days he remained blind and fasted. What went on in his soul in those days no mortal can know, but we may be assured that he, like the Lord in the wilderness, was too deep in meditation and prayer to desire food.

III. Ananias Ministers to Saul (vv. 10-19).

1. Ananias' Vision (vv. 10-12). In this vision the Lord appeared and instructed him to go to Saul. He gave him the name of the street and Saul's host, and informed him that Saul was now a praying man, and that He had prepared Saul by a vision for the coming of Ananias.

2. Ananias' Fear and Hesitancy (vv. 13-16).

He knew of Saul's ministry and the authority by which he came. The Lord encouraged him to go, assuring him that Saul is no longer an enemy but a chosen vessel to bear His name before the Gentiles, kings, and the children of Israel.

3. Ananias' Obedience (v. 17).

His fears being removed, Ananias went to the house where Saul was staying, put his hand on him and affectionately addressed him as "brother." Ananias told Saul that the Lord had sent him with a two-fold mission: (1) "That thou mightest receive thy sight."

(2) "Be filled with the Holy Spirit"

4. Saul Baptized (vv. 18-19).

After Saul received his sight Ananias baptized him. The Lord bestows the gift of the Spirit upon whomsoever He will, and may designate anyone whether occupying an official position or not, to lay hands upon individuals.

NEARLY INSANE AT TIMES

Mrs. Saunders Tells how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Relieved Troubles of Change of Life

Knoxville, Tenn.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound while going through the Change of Life. I was very nervous, could not sleep and had melancholy spells. In fact, I was nearly insane at times and my memory was almost a blank. I was so weak I could not do my household half of the time and suffered dreadfully with my back. My doctor said I would have to worry it out and I went through this for three years before I began taking the Vegetable Compound which I saw advertised. I think it was eight bottles that I took. It has been two years since I took any and I haven't had a doctor since for that trouble. I do all my washing and ironing and I have gained from 116 to 138 pounds. I feel so well I think I do not need any medicine now, but I advise all women who suffer physically and mentally as I did to give the Vegetable Compound a fair trial. TANLAC FOR YOUR HEALTH

Killed at 104 Years

When old Dr. Yernest, the Swedish doctor, scientist and inventor, was killed at the age of 104 years by falling from his horse, there is no telling how long he might have lived to prove that he had rediscovered the ancient secret of prolonging life.

He proved that the secret of good health—the secret of prolonging life—was to keep the digestive organs in good condition and that all the elements to sustain life and to replenish waste tissue could be secured from pure and wholesome food.

His remedy made of Roots and Herbs he called "ESSENCE OF LIFE," for it seemed to restore vitality and strength to all who used it.

He gave away thousands of packages of his "ESSENCE OF LIFE" and you can also secure a free trial (now made in pill form) if you will cut out his picture and mail it to M. R. Zaegel & Co., chemists, 630 Eighth St., Sheboygan, Wis.

If you have pimples or other evidence of impure blood, frequent headaches and dizzy spells, feel nervous and cannot sleep, if your appetite is poor and you need some remedy to help digest your food, then by all means send in the picture and get your free sample today.

Taken Too Lightly

There were 22,000 persons killed and 700,000 injured on American highways last year, 85 per cent of these accidents being due to the automobile. "The road hog is too leniently treated," said Secretary Hoover, in a discussion of traffic conditions at a banquet. "We take his crimes in too light a manner."

"A road hog in a crimson racer upset Smith, and then came back to see if he was dead."

"Are you dead, man?" he yelled.

"Smith answered with a gay laugh from the ditch where he lay with a broken leg."

"Oh, no, not dead, dear boy—only run down."

Truth never was indebted to a lie.

Wonderful Experience

When Henry Oldys, naturalist and authority on bird calls, died recently at Rockville, Md., he left a will which contains this paragraph: "I commend my soul to God in the hope that, despite its unworthiness to enjoy the great privilege, he will allow it to continue its existence after the death of my body. Should I be denied this great boon, yet am I deeply grateful that I have been permitted to enjoy this beautiful world, to think and to feel. It has been a wonderful and delightful experience, and I thank my God with an overflowing heart that I have lived. My one regret is that I have dealt so unworthily with the life he lent me."

Important to All Women Readers of This Paper

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer pain in the back, headache and loss of ambition. Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be despondent; it makes any one so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine will do for them. By inclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., you may receive sample size bottle by Parcel Post. You can purchase medium and large size bottles at all drug stores.

Solution of Last Week's Puzzle.

HOW TO SOLVE A CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

When the correct letters are placed in the white spaces this puzzle will spell words both vertically and horizontally. The first letter in each word is indicated by a number, which refers to the definition listed below the puzzle. Thus No. 1 under the column headed "horizontal" defines a word which will fill the white spaces up to the first black square to the right, and a number under "vertical" defines a word which will fill the white squares to the next black one below. No letters go in the black spaces. All words used are dictionary words, except proper names. Abbreviations, slang, initials, technical terms and obsolete forms are indicated in the definitions.

Sleepy Man Driven to Make Suggestion

A Hoosier traveling man had a hotel room next to one occupied by two teachers during the teachers' convention. He was very tired and turned in early. But hardly had he closed his eyes when the two teachers came in from the evening session. They discussed it, one of them particularly being endowed with a voice commonly called strident.

Finally they finished with the subject and he, thinking they were through with the conversation for the night, turned over again and once more began to think of slumbering. But after a little pause the loud talking began on another theme, namely, the hard life of a teacher. After she had discussed it from all angles she said: "If I only knew where I could succeed I would leave the teaching profession. Now what could I really do as well as I can teach school?"

Before the second teacher could answer her the long-suffering man rose to the occasion. "Madam," he shouted through the wall, "you could be an auctioneer."—Indianapolis News.

Portable Mill Works

Many times in the past we have all wished for a woodworking machine combining many of the features of the mill works, so portable, well balanced and flexible that we could take it to where heavy timbers lie and frame them to our heart's content while they lay where gravity held them. Butchers are planning their chopping blocks as they stand. Tank and vat makers are framing their heavy timbers as they lie on benches; cutting, splicing, boring and graining on timbers as thick as 12 inches is all done as the timbers lie.—Scientific American.

The Relation of Home and Money

Clean Up and Paint Up your home. This is one of life's greatest pleasures.

But without money there can be no home, and without a home money means little—so the two are essential to complete happiness.

Love and affection lay the foundation for a home. Money makes the home a reality.

When we control our desires and spend less than we earn, the difference, if laid away, becomes a saving towards a home or a better home.

Every home owner needs three things which this bank has to offer:
